Software maker Muzyka have launched a full-featured ebook reader for Windows. The notion that a large company could actually add value to a small business is an oxymoron to the average user. Rather, small business owners turn to the big-name suppliers in hopes of attaining value. Another application that comes to mind is the hundreds of different applications that allow you to transfer money from one account to another. In many cases, these transfer options can be useful in order to transfer money out of your account and into a higher-yielding account. There is no reason to use an online bank instead of the one that you already have. With an online bank, you would have to move money over the Internet, but with a bank that already exists in your area, you have an option for transferring money. Another option is to use an ATM card, but some banks and credit unions charge hefty fees for withdrawing money from these machines. This type of account has an annual fee of about $3 to $5. A bank that already exists in your area could charge far less for withdrawing money, so consider it a good option if you don't want to pay fees for withdrawing money at an ATM. Banks that offer both checking and savings accounts could be a good option if you do a lot of traveling. A typical checking account might pay out $75 to $100 per month while a savings account might give you $50 to $75. You'd have to take these figures into consideration if you plan to make frequent travel and you need to keep money accessible. The same holds true with a credit card. It could be a good option for someone who travels a lot or someone who likes to travel and has a large bill from time to time. A credit card could be a good option for someone who likes to go out and party occasionally, but it might not be a good idea if you have a large amount of debt that you'd need to pay off. Finally, one other option is to look for a bank that offers some sort of prepaid debit card. This type of account has no monthly fees, but there are costs for the service. Some banks offer a card that charges a $1 monthly fee, and other banks charge $3 or $5 per month. When you get your first statement, you'd have to pay $1 to $3 for the first statement and then a monthly fee. Depending on the bank, the costs could vary. The website also
